The Boston Herald turns the search light of truth upon the president's responsibility for the Philippine war. The Hub City journal says of the war:

"Politically, it seems to us that this most injure President McKinley with the American people. With him lay the creation or the avoidance of the war, and the manner in which he met this responsibility has not been fortunate for himself or the nation. In the opinion of many who believe in national expansion the president has listened to bad advice in the course he has taken. It can hardly be regarded as an error of judgment on his part in any other aspect, for he has had no policy of his own—we do not understand him ever to profess to have had. He is the subject of criticism for having failed to so conduct our national affairs as to have prevented the war, and of course the longer the war continues the greater will be the dissatisfaction of this kind among the people. It has to be confessed that the effects of it are apparent already."

"Foley's Kidney Cure has been tested and found to be all you claim for it. I have been giving it to my father and it is the only thing that ever helped him," writes Geo. C. Hickock, Curtis, Wis. All dealers.

Chinese History.

Authentic history and biography in China embraces a period from the year 122 of our era back to the remote period of 2,697 years before Christ. The historians of China embrace a succession or uninterrupted series of more than 3,000 years. The full and continuous history of the empire was compiled in the second century of our era.

The great libraries of Peking contain volumes of books numbered by the hundreds of thousands. In the archives of the government are still to be found the ancient predictions of eclipses made with great accuracy, together with works on astronomy which show a fair knowledge of that interesting science. Biographies very succinctly written, of the emperors of the most ancient dynasties, still exist, and written works of learned men are as voluminous as those of European nations. And all this learning and love of learning has been acquired without help or suggestion from any foreign people. If their authentic histories reach back to nearly two centuries ago, mythical history reaches still further back into the very night of time.

When Nineveh and Babylon were in the splendor of their might men in China were predicting eclipses, making catalogues and giving names to the stars. But Nineveh and Babylon were mere mounds of earth and rubbish when China was great, and to this date the civilization and life of the empire is the wonder of the world.—Read Admiral Francis A. B. Rock, in the Culture for September.

Lincoln's Funeral.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell will give in McClure's Magazine for September an account of Lincoln's funeral—an event in its kind, since almost every man, woman and child in the north was a personal mourner, and people stood day and night, in rain and shine, along the railroad in an almost continuous line from Washington to Springfield, to view the passing funeral train and to testify their reverence and grief.

Neglected in a Paris cemetery lie the remains of America's first and most dashing seaman, John Paul Jones. Now that we are honoring the men who have demonstrated American bravery in the harbor of Manila and Sanago, let us not forget the man who won the English ships and made the American name feared in the period of the revolution. They were the men for the times and without them there would have been no country for Dewey and Schley to defend.

A DREAD CALENDAR.

The Eyes of the World Are Turned Toward the Dark Continent—Captain Boycott.

A Terrible Fall.

Special correspondence of THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, August 22.—As I sat looking over the columns of one of our great dailies the other morning the entire front page was one dread calendar of murder, robbery, suicides, accidents by sea and land, dreadful railroad disasters, war everywhere, peace nowhere, till it seemed as if we were now realizing the terrible prophecy of the Apocalypse, "when the dread angel, with one foot on the sea and the other on the land, shall proclaim to the assembled nations of the earth that time shall be no more."

A hundred years have passed since a little band of Dutchmen, jealous of their civil and religious liberty, entreated from the loves and associations of a life and, in search of that freedom which their own country denied them, sought a home on the burning and inhospitable shores of Africa, which a later civilization christened the Dark Continent, and which the imperfect maps of those days marked "Terra Incognita." Africa was great in learning and mighty in arms, the seat of a perfect and well organized nationality, with a code of laws which the nations of after years could only copy, but have never been able to improve, when Greece was a pasture land for hawks and herds and Rome was still without a name. Those silent witnesses along the Nile's turbid banks reveal in part the history of the teeming millions that have left behind them the tremendous ruins of Memphis, Thebes and Karnak. What strange fate or terrible judgment was it that destroyed those busy millions and mingled their ashes with the desert's burning sands?

A hundred years ago we knew less of the interior of Africa than we now know of the land around the Arctic circle.

To-day the eyes of the whole world are turned toward the Dark Continent and the greatest nations of the earth are casting lots for its dismembered domain and while I write Fugland is marshaling a great army which will call to account the Boers of the Transvaal, who find shelter under the flag of the Orange Free State. Their first settlement was not far from the sea coast, but not many years had passed when they found unwise neighbors pressing upon them, which, if tolerated, would defeat the sacrifice they had made of home and friends, and the hard alternative of quitting the country or beating the intruders back, or giving in that for which they had fought and bled, the promise secured by their federal compact of "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

What the world calls its higher civilization they looked upon with abhorrence, fasting and prayer led straight up to the throne of grace, while the pain and suffering and disappointments on earth were merely the preparations necessary for glorious and never ending salvation in the world to come.

There was a wonderful resemblance in the three great reformers that made the Reformation enduring and strong. The system was a stern militarist, harsh, hard and drastic, that admitted no question, that brooked no contradiction, and it was this almost savage asceticism that enabled them to stand without flinching. Calvin at Geneva, where the spirit of the gentle Servites, transfigured amid the smoke of the unhappy sacrifice, ascended to heaven and to God.

Sydney on Tower Hill and John Huss amid the red flames of his funeral pyre on the market place of Constance were an indignant protest against the barbarous and bloody arbitrament as that which disgraced the city of Cleveland for two or three weeks past. I would not mention this here but for a well founded rumor which explains what Mr. Parsons meant when he said that the next fight would not be for twenty or twenty-five rounds. It was to be the "great fight of my life—a fight to finish, where the party knocked out will never come to the ring again."

Several of our great business houses have cabled to a large number of their commercial travelers to come home, as they feel themselves entirely unable to forecast the trade values of a products market which threatens the land with fire disaster and ruin.

The boycott attempted in Cleveland last week took its name from one Captain Boycott, the keeper and caretaker of an estate in Ireland. In the absence of the lord of the manor Captain Boycott was authorized to do all that he could have done had he been present. On the first of the month he called for the rent; they not only refused to pay, but drove him away with sticks and stones. That afternoon he called the high sheriff to his aid, assisted by a posse constitutus, he leveled the mud cabin to the ground. The grand battle took place the day before my arrival in Ireland, party feeling pretty high, and thus the boycott began which became so famous throughout the world. All of Captain Boycott's servants were driven from his house by threats and were forbidden to furnish him anything under the penalty of being boycotted, and on the refusal to observe the boycotters' warning the second time the penalty was death. Then the boycott took an ominous and several houses were burned, sheep killed, cattle poisoned and many other things done to make Captain Boycott feel very uncomfortable. The battle raged for several months till the boycotters were thinned out—some were killed, others were transported, till at last there was nobody left to fight, and as a fitting conclusion to this interesting story, the man whose name has been linked with one of the most infamous forms of crime in the history of the world, when last heard from, still lives and is also a caretaker of the same estate, and neighbors. From Dingle Bay to the Hill of Howth, say there is not in Ireland a more popular man than Captain Boycott.

Grand Master Parsons' fight to a finish included the boycott, but the tactics that served to point a moral and adorn a tale in Cleveland found no place wherein to rest its foot in New York. It was proposed to try the boycott here if the boycott was a howling success in Cleveland. The strike was started among the tailors.

I do not know what branch—for when you question a tailor now, the person questioned desires to know of what branch—there are coat makers, vest makers, trouser, knee pants and a number of intermediate tailors, too numerous to mention. The one delight of a tailor's life is a strike, then frankfurter sausage, bologna, sauerkraut, Switzer kase, larger beer and pretzels, so that it is a cold day when you can't get a strike among the tailors. Well, Parsons tried it, but it would not work. The memory of Chief Deverey's night stick at Walhalla Hall hung out in bold relief against a stormy sky and when one stout Russian, whose unshaven face looked like a worn-out shoe brush, turned on the walking delegates, who advised him to boycott somebody, said: "Vots do you done thinks I vos some d— fool dot I not meen coul' skipt like this? No, sir, honest, dot wasn't me, dot was sure oder veller." He had received a clip of Deverey's night stick—one dose was enough. The shadow of that fearful club in the hands of an expert like Clubber Williams or Chief Deverey is to an ordinary striker or a Brownsville tailor more terrible than an army with banners. We may have a strike but no boycott.

One of the saddest cases of either and terrible falls that ever took place in my memory occurred last week. It is thirty years ago since Joe Worrel, the famous clown, arrived in California from Australia. Joe was clever and his three daughters were pretty and talented and their appearance created a very lively sensation. Night after night the tent was crowded and the family received for their services a thousand dollars a week. Dudedom went wild over them and it was not very long till all the girls were literally blushing with diamonds. They came east and here their triumphs were renewed. The sisters were Jenny, Sophie and Irene. Jenny lived for several years with a rich gambler who lavished thousands on her. On account of her intemperate habits he cast her down, down she went to the lowest depths of degradation, till a year or two ago, when, ragged, covered with mud, no shoes, clear-eyed, her tangle hair hanging about her shoulders, she looked the picture of the outcast, homeless misery. Last week she was seen around Coney Island staggering drunk. She went to the meadows and laid in the tall grass. Some boys set the grass on fire and she was burned to death.

Who Will Be Our Next President?

Politicians are now planning for the presidential campaign of 1869, but the world has overshadowed all other matters that politics is almost unnoticed. Many people are of the opinion that the candidate will be the same as in 1866, but there may be a "dark horse" who will win the race. Popularity has much to do with candidates. This is also true with medicine. The most popular remedy to-day is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and it has retained this for many years. Science never discovered the equal of this medicine for stomach, liver and kidney diseases. It builds up solid flesh, imparts vigor and vitality to all organs, and makes life worth living. A bottle will make a big change for the better. Try it.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. Lesson for August 27.

RETURNING FROM CAPTIVITY, Ezra 1: 1-4.

GODEN TEXT—"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad," Psalm 131: 2.

"When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream. There was our mouth filled with laughter, and our tongue with singing: then said they among the heathen, 'The Lord hath done great things for them.'

We Gentiles can never understand the depth of these words. Captives only can know their full meaning. Only Jews can know their patios. They only who have been so long crushed and despised and cast down will not be destroyed, can still sing, rejoicing in the word, "Turn again our captivity, O, Lord, as the streams in the south." And their Messiah has sworn that he will do it.

The Leaves and Triumph Radishes.

A campaign was recently made by Friend New York between the two unique varieties of radish—viz., Triumph and Leafless.

This showed that both kinds are early and that there is but little difference between them, the Leafless being about three days earlier.

Seeding Stick Clay Soil to Grass.

Prepare the soil as for wheat in August, and in early September sow 10 quarts per acre of timothy and brush and roll it in. In March sow six quarts medium and earlier on light snow or light honeycombed frost. If for pasture, sow 32 quarts per acre of blue grass in September with the timothy.

This is one of the most desirable farms in Blair county.

Ministerial Meeting of Junians Classis.

On Monday the members of the Junians Ministerial association were entertained at Bedford by Rev. and Mrs. Irvin W. Hendricks. A delicious repast was served at the Reformed parsonage. The following visiting ministers were present: Rev. T. C. Cromer, of St. Clairsville; Rev. C. B. Heller, of Everett; Rev. D. G. Hietrick, of Hollensburg; Rev. F. A. Rapley, of Alexandria; Rev. Lewis Robb, of Altoona; Rev. S. C. Stover, of Cessna, and Rev. C. P. Wehr, of Charlesville. At 2 o'clock the ministers adjourned to the church, where the meeting proper was held. Rev. C. P. Wehr read a psalm and offered prayer, after which Rev. C. B. Heller was made chairman of the meeting. Rev. Lewis Robb then proceeded to review the book entitled "The Gospel for a World of Sin." The review was clear and thorough. Remarks were then made on the review and on the book by Revs. C. P. Wehr, T. C. Cromer, D. G. Hietrick, S. C. Stover, F. A. Rapley and C. B. Heller. Rev. William M. Deatrick, D. D., and Prof. C. V. Smith, of Bedford, were also present at the meeting in the afternoon. Rev. Paul S. Leinbach is the reviewer for the next meeting, which will be held in Christ's church, Altoona, two months hence.

A New Way to Swindle Farmers.

A new scheme to swindle farmers is being practiced in some parts of Pennsylvania. The plan of the sharpers is to have one of their number, representing himself to be a minister on a walking tour, call at a farm house for a night's lodgings. While he is there a strange couple drive up, looking for a minister to marry them. Then the "clergyman" upstairs is thought of, and he asks the farmer to witness the ceremony, which later turns out to be, instead of a marriage certificate, a promissory note.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. McCoy herewith thank their friends for their kindly sympathy and assistance during their recent bereavement.

AUGUST 22.—One roamed to the living. One single kind word said, is worth a dozen apologies. Or wreaths unto the dead. On Saturday afternoon L. W. Allibone, superintendent of Bedford division, walked up the railroad track on a business mission. We have found him a cultured gentleman, a stanch friend, but a foe to the oppression of the poor and weak, no matter from what quarter it comes. Every beat of his pulse and every throb of his great, mainly heart—which is big as his own—hugs and tender as a woman's—hugs the welfare of humanity. Men like him are never burned in effigy. He was accompanied by T. Burkett, the efficient supervisor of the Bedford division, who is ever busy in the company's interest or trying to make some good and happy.

W. Hall Carter is spending a week at Crystal Springs camp-meeting.

Miss Mary Kay, one of Sixton's prettily young ladies, is spending a week at the M. E. parsonage.

Our good neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Todd and son, returned home on last Friday from Baltimore, where they had been for several weeks.

Mr. G. E. Blackburn and children of Wilkinsburg, are guests at the pleasant home of F. M. Bixler.

John Purcell and Mrs. Purcell will leave on Thursday for Philadelphia.

The Sunday school of the M. E. church will hold their annual picnic on Saturday next, August 25.

We noticed the absence of the handsomer, clever and accommodating train master of the Bedford division, J. W. Penrose, from his accustomed place on the road on a Sunday morning. If Fossile had greater attraction than Brother Adams' sermon (which was a most excellent one) all right. This but did the cow eat the hammock this afternoon?

Mrs. Susan Nelson, of Cessna, was a welcome guest of your correspondent yesterday afternoon for a short time.

W. M. Smith, of Alum Bank, has been engaged to teach the Valley school. Miss Smith comes well recommended.

Harry Blackburn and Will Zeigler, of Windber, spent the past week among friends but intend returning to Windber Monday.

J. E. McMullin came home from Windber on Friday. He will remain a few days attending to his business matters and visiting. He reports all Bedford county citizens working there doing well.

C. E. Yarnell attended the picnic on Saturday and stopped awhile with your correspondent's family and his children. Mr. Yarnell has a good job of carpenter work at Windber. He had just finished up a lot of work in Windber and got orders to go mine No. 37 to work on some buildings being built there.

For the benefit of courtesies of Co. K. of the 53rd Regt., I will say that I have had several letters from comrade, Dr. N. A. Bowser, late of that company, who is a resident of Mount A Renault, Washington County, Mo., and Dr. Bowser will be with us at our reunion in Philadelphia if circumstances will permit. Every man in the regiment will remember little white head-dick, Nick, or "Devil Nick," as he was called.

One of our neighbors lost about two gallons of wine on Saturday afternoon or night. They have a clue as to who the guilty parties are.

Schellerville.

AUGUST 21.—Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Gumbert, of Fort Ligonier, passed through here last week on their way to Apollo and stopped over night with Rev. D. G. Hietrick.

Thomas K. and Mrs. Blackburn, of New Paris, spent one day last week in our village as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Danner.

Last week Rev. and Mrs. Hietrick received quite a lot of fine roasting ears from Mrs. W. W. Van Ormer.

Thanks, come again.

Mrs. I. H. Taylor filled "Gideon's" buggy lately with provisions—meat, apples, plums and cabbage. They did not come again.

On Thursday evening the Reformed people held a festival on their church lawn and realized about $16.

GIRARD.

Noticed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition, but had never had letters from comrade, Dr. N. A. Bowser, late of that company, who is a resident of Mount A Renault, Washington County, Mo., and Dr. Bowser will be with us at our reunion in Philadelphia if circumstances will permit. Every man in the regiment will remember little white head-dick, Nick, or "Devil Nick," as he was called.

New Paris.

AUGUST 22.—Thomas Mickel, of Altoona, was a guest of J. R. Sleek a few days.

Ralph Beckley and bride, of Altoona, paid a short visit last week.

Mrs. Walter Rose, of Johnstown, is calling on old friends in this part of the country.

Mrs. C. B. Millhoff, whose husband is now with an encampment of U. S. troops at San Francisco, is here rustication among relatives and friends.

Walter Dibert, William Dibert and Miss Daisy Dibert, of Garrett City, Ind., and Miss Katie Dibert, of Bedford, were guests of J. E. Taylor filled "Gideon's" buggy lately with provisions—meat, apples, plums and cabbage. They did not come again.

A. J. Crissman has purchased a hydraulic cider press and has it erected ready for use at his residence one mile north of town. It certainly surpasses the old manner of getting the juice out of apples.

Ex-County Commissioner John W. Crissman, of Cessna, and his daughter, Mrs. L. B. Ferry, of New Enterprise, visited him on Saturday.

Mr. C. K. Shriner not long since.

A. J. Crissman has his new Enterprise press up and running.

A new roof is now being put on the grill mill at our well known flour merchant, C. H. Sleek.

Chalybeaville.

AUGUST 23.—George W., son of William and Minnie Niblock, died August 17, aged about nine months. Little George was ill for some time and under the doctor's care and his recovery seemed almost a certainty, but on Tuesday he grew worse and in spite of all that loving hands could do for him in a few days his soul had left its tenement of clay and on angel's wings was carried to that bright shore where he can forever enjoy the company of him who said unto me, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, for such is the kingdom of heaven." His sad and deeply think that one so young, so promising as George W. Niblock, had been called to cross the river of death. But, parents, though you have lost a precious son, remember that his journey of life in this unfriendly world is now ended—he has gone to be with the redeemed of all ages. Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye know not the Son of man cometh. Let your sorrows be soothed by the comforting assurance that he has safely reached that haven where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. God has called him home to live. Farewell, weep not for him. Be forever fara well.

His remains were interred on Saturday in the Bedford cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. L. Culler, of Bedford.

Installation at Sixton.

Licentiate A. C. Thompson was ordained and installed pastor of the

Saxton charge in the Reformed church last Sunday evening, August 20, at 7:30 o'clock. The pastors appointed by Junians classis for the ordination and installation were Revs. Beck, Poeter and Stombraker. The pastor who preached the sermon, or charge to the pastor, Rev. Beck the sermon to the people and Rev. Poeter had charge of the altar service. Rev. Thompson enters upon his work in this field with bright prospects. May pastor and people be blessed in their new relation!

Point.

AUGUST 22.—The Evangelical Sabbath school picnic on Saturday was a grand success and was well attended. Early in the forenoon the people began coming from every direction and about two o'clock the crowd was large on the ground and the roads were full of vehicles and pedestrians on the go, in every direction. The Cessna band furnished the music, and everybody had words of praise for the gentlymanly manners of the band and everyone appreciated their good playing. All enjoyed themselves and had a good time shaking hands and renewing acquaintance with old friends. It is claimed that was held at this place.

On Sunday just after Sunday school as Jay Blackburn was riding on his bicycle from the old church Mrs. Otto happened to be out in the road and hurried to get out of the way of the cyclist and, as usual, got right in the way as Mr. Blackburn turned aside also. Both turned the same way and the result was Mrs. Otto was run against and knocked down, cutting her head and badly bruising her. She lay unconscious for a short time. When consciousness returned she was taken to her home and Dr. James Staiger was sent for and found her in a very nervous condition, but not seriously injured. Mr. Blackburn was very sorry that he was the cause of the accident and Mrs. Otto exonerates him from being the cause, as she got in his way.

W. H. Hall Carter is spending a week at Crystal Springs camp-meeting.
